

MORGAN PROBERS HAVE UNCOVERED WAR—TIME FILES

Find House Disrupted Plans For Solution Of Sub Problem

By Richard L. Turner.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Washington, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Rippley covers from the state department's war-time files, the senate munitions committee today revealed that Col. E. M. House, confidant of Woodrow Wilson, disrupted negotiations for a solution of the German submarine problem by arranging a secret understanding with Great Britain.

While J. P. Morgan and his partners sat silently before it, the committee disclosed that the negotiations were abandoned at House's urgent request, while he and Sir Edward Grey, then British foreign minister, worked out a peace plan. If rejected by Germany, this plan conditionally committed America to participation in the far east side of the allies.

These and other revelations were interpreted by Senator Nye (R., N.D.), chairman of the committee, as indicating that while professing neutrality, the Wilson administration was caught in a web of commercial circumstances which threatened the country with financial disaster in the event of a German triumph.

From a mass of documents, the committee revealed:

That the state department under Robert Lansing never seriously pressed its protests at British interference with American commerce and that "with deliberate purpose" they were "submerged in verbiage."

That as early as Oct. 4, 1915, Wilson, despite the pressing problems of neutrality, was discussing a "main issue for the campaign next year" with Col. House.

That with the submarine negotiations proceeding, Lansing informed British officials that the administration was not behind a pending resolution to warn Americans against traveling on the vessels of belligerents.

That in the same connection, Wilson wrote Senator William J. Stone of Missouri, a member of the foreign relations committee, since deceased, that "no honorable or self-respecting nation" would yield its clearly defined rights.

Bruno Hauptmann Moves Nearer Electric Chair; Court Denies Writ, Stay

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Bruno Hauptmann moved another step nearer the electric chair tonight when a federal judge refused to grant him a habeas corpus writ or to stay his execution set for Friday night.

But even as this avenue of escape was closed, the man condemned to die for the Lindbergh baby kidnapping murder was given hope for a few more days of life by a report that Governor Harold G. Hoffman would grant a reprieve.

Rejecting all the arguments of defense counsel that Hauptmann's trial at Flemington was surrounded by prejudicial influences, U. S. Circuit Court Judge J. Warren Davis said that to grant the writ he would have to overrule both the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals and the United States Supreme Court.

Despair was written on the faces of the defense lawyers as they left the court room.

"That is the end," said one of the five attorneys, who would not be quoted by name.

The only possibility in the world is the United States Supreme Court, said Neil Burkishaw, a Washington lawyer just added to the defense staff in a final effort to save Hauptmann.

Before going to the hearing and branding the writ application signed by Hauptmann himself in his death cell "a subterfuge and fraud," Attorney General David T. Wilentz said he had "reliable information" that Governor Hoffman would grant a reprieve.

The chief prosecutor of Hauptmann made the statement to members of the legislative appropriations committee and added that if such act was taken he would need additional funds to fight the case.

Governor Hoffman himself gave no hint as to whether he would prolong the condemned man's life. He could only grant a reprieve of not exceeding ninety days, the State Court of Pardons already having denied a plea for commutation of sentence.

Defense attorneys hastened from Judge Davis' court room to a nearby hotel, one of them remarking, "We've got to think."

In rejecting the two motions Judge Davis said that for him to overrule the highest courts of the state and the nation "would seem to me to be sheer inexcusable judicial egotism on my part."

"I happened to be in court at Flemington a couple of days during the trial," he said, "and in my judgment it was tried brilliantly on both sides by very industrious and capable counsel."

"Every remedy known to law has been used to save this prisoner from electrocution and if the prisoner goes to the electric chair, he cannot blame counsel."

"What is complained of here took place before the eyes of Justice (Thomas W.) Trenchard, one of the most conscientious and fair gentlemen of the state."

REPUBLICANS' CAMPAIGN OVER AIR IS OPENED

Will Attempt To Bring Home Ill-Effects Of New Deal

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The first of the Republican party's dramatized political programs aimed at the new deal and described to voters of the G. O. P. cause, was broadcast over radio station WGN tonight.

For a half hour verbal thrusts at "regimentation," "excessive taxation," crop control, the national debt and new deal undertakings—interspersed with martial music and dramatic sketches—went over the air.

The announced purpose of the innovation was to bring home the ill effect of the government's policies on your life and mine.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was quoted as stating in his 1932 campaign:

"Stop the deficits."

An announcer declared the administration's expenditures resulted in a $3,575,000,000 deficit on June 30, 1935; that the new deal is spending $1.95 for each $1 collected; that the public debt totals $30,534,000,000.

John Smith and Mary Jones appear at a marriage license bureau. After routine questions, the clerk inquires:

"Do you know the national debt has a prior lien on everything you earn? The average man must pay $4.60 a week to the government."

Smith, making only $22.50 a week, cancels the marriage plans.

The next skit show Citizen Brown paying Andy, the butcher, 15 cents a pound for pork roast in 1934. Eight months later the price has risen to 30 cents. The butcher explains:

"The government has used the processing tax to destroy hogs and make meat more expensive."

In a breakfast nook sketch, Husband Jack is informed by Wife Jane that they can't afford bacon at 53 cents a pound. A year later they return to the table to eat bacon imported from Poland. The husband observes:

"We good Americans are eating Polish bacon in a suburb of Chicago, the world's meat packing center. It's the new deal for foreign farmers."

Italy Declares Nothing Can Be Done At Geneva

Government Is Debating Whether To Send Representative

Rome, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Italy met rumors of new peace moves with an official assertion tonight that she thinks "nothing positive can be done now at Geneva."

A spokesman said the government is debating whether to have representatives attend a meeting of the league council next Monday, when the question of an oil sanction against Italy is scheduled to be taken up.

A government communiqué announced intense scouting activity by Italians on the northern war front and the capture of 1,000 bags of Ethiopian provisions by fascist patrols.

Torrential rains were said to be falling throughout the northern area.

An Asmara dispatch said Flier Vittorio Mussolini, son of the premier, narrowly escaped death in a recent aerial bombardment on the northern front.

An Ethiopian shell exploded within the ship demolishing the cabin door and severing the machinegun support but young Mussolini was not injured and returned to his base with difficulty.

Refuse To Probe Prignano Slaying

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—(AP)—During the brief business transaction in the second special session of the House today, Clinton Searle, Rock Island Republican, tried unsuccessfully to secure a legislative inquiry into the assassination last month of the late Representative A. J. Prignano, Chicago Democrat.

Searle presented his resolution calling for the inquiry by a committee which would have power to summon Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Police Commissioner James P. Allman and other law enforcement officials in an investigation of the slaying.

Speaker John Devine refused to allow the resolution to be read and it was tabled on motion of Representative James Boyle, Chicago Democrat, who was in the chair when Searle sent up his proposal.

San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Frank Meador, youthful bank statement clerk, admitted today his romance with his attractive heiress wife, Anne Gould Meador, was ended and that he has filed suit for a divorce.

FEAR CONGRESS CANNOT ESCAPE TAX INCREASE

Legislation Is Widening

By Douglas B. Cornell.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Assertions that congress may be unable to escape consideration of additional tax legislation at this session were sounded today at the capitol, widening a rift of opinion upon this point.

On the house side, Representative Bankhead (D., Ala.), the Democratic leader, told newspapermen new tax legislation "may be inevitable." He did not elaborate.

On the other side of the capitol, Senator George (D., Ga.), a member of the finance committee, asserted he felt the supreme court's scrapping of the AAA would require imposing of new levies. He declined to predict what form such taxes might take.

Others took directly opposite views. There was, however, a noticeable increase of private discussion of the subject as word spread that Secretary Morgenthau, appearing privately before a senate finance committee bonus hearing, had reported that the government might have to raise $11,300,000,000 in the next 171 months. Of this $5,800,000,000 would be regular treasury refunding.

Chairman Harrison (D., Miss.), of the senate finance committee, making particular reference to the bonus, reiterated to newsmen his previous prediction that no new taxes would be necessary. He spoke after listening to the treasury secretary's outline.

House Refuses to Concur In Senate Amendments to "Old Age" Pension Bill

By Curtis R. Hay.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—(AP)—After a rough and tumble battle in which the Chicago delegation swung the pendulum of victory, the house today stood back of Governor Horner and refused to concur in senate "home rule" amendments to the old age assistance administration bill.

The bill, with the amendments rejected, was sent back to the upper chamber. The senate was expected to request a conference to iron out disputed over how to appoint local boards and pay administration costs.

At several times it appeared as if downstate Democrats, backing the governor's wish for appointment of the boards by the state department of welfare, had lost, but at the last minute the Chicagoans came to their rescue.

The final decision was by a vote which the speaker declared carried by the governor's forces. Many members thought however, that the other side had shouted down the proposal not to concur.

Republicans, if they had agreed to a deal with the Chicagoans to first pass the bill putting Cook county's pension program under the welfare bureau there, probably would have won the fight.

Such an agreement was on at one time in the long series of speeches and roll calls, but when a few Chicago members grew impatient and voted before the majority leader, Benjamin S. Adamowski gave the word, the latter called off the arrangement and threw his support to the Horner group.

The fight opened with a motion by Rep. F. W. Lewis, Robinson Democrat, that the house reject all the amendments which provided the state pay all the costs and that county court judges appoint the local boards.

As a substitute for this motion, Minority Leader Le Roy M. Green, Rockford, moved to concur in the changes. This motion, Nicholas L. Hubbard, Mt. Pulaski Democrat, moved he be tabled. Up to this point there had been no debate.

Hugh Green, Jacksonville Republican, opened the speech making with a plea to concur.

"I don't want to see the old age pension boards become political footballs," he said. "It is time to decide whether we want home rule. The supreme court of the United States has thrown out New Deal legislation and there is no assurance the federal social security program won't be knocked out too. Then the state would have to pay and the county judges, in that case, should make the appointments."

Le Roy Green followed with a declaration that Cook county wanted to retain benefits which it doesn't want to give downstate counties.

Mine Bombings To Be Investigated By Government

Two Members Of Progressive Miners Subpoenaed To Appear Before Jury

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—(AP)—An investigation of mine war bombings in Southern Illinois during the past three years was reported underway today before a federal grand jury here.

That federal authorities had started a probe was indicated as a result of subpoenas issued for S. L. Jones, Belleville, state secretary-treasurer of the Progressive Miners of America, and John Taylor, of Gillespie, chairman of the P. M. A. relief committee.

They were ordered to appear before the grand jury with all records of the union's relief fund expenditures from Dec. 1, 1932, to Sept. 30, 1935.

Jones and Taylor fought the subpoena before Federal Judge J. Earl Major. Arguing whether such evidence was material, Assistant U. S. District Attorney Marks P. Alexander asserted:

"This matter relates to bombings which have gone on in Southern Illinois for the past three years."

Judge Major overruled the motion to quash the subpoena. The grand jury, which the U. S. attorney's office had said would report late today, made a patrol report instead.

While officials refused to comment on the investigation, the partial report was taken to indicate the jurors would be held over to hear testimony from Jones and Taylor and examine the records.

SHIRLEY TAPP IS IN
SIXTH DAY OF COMA

Detroit, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Shirley Tapp, 17-year-old Dearborn Township girl, was in the sixth day of a coma induced by religious fervor today while her family, members of the "Philly Salvation Union" sect, watched and prayed beside the couch on which she slept.

Her mother, Mrs. Laverne Tapp, confident the girl will awaken at the end of the seventh day, said she would resist any efforts to bring her daughter out of the coma.

Dr. Martin Hoffman, psychiatrist, who examined Shirley Monday, said he believed her condition was a form of hysteria. Dr. Edward F. Fisher, Tapp family physician, described her physical condition as normal, but added that he would take steps to give her medical aid if her health appears to be endangered.

NEW FARM BILL BEING FRAMED ROBINSON SAYS

Will Be Ready For Submission Late This Week

Washington, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Asserting a hope for enactment of new farm legislation very soon, President Roosevelt gave added substance today to reports that the administration would seek continued control of production.

Told Senator Norris (R., Neb.), had asserted a belief the supreme court's AAA decision barred such regulation, Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference he hoped the senator was unquenchably pessimistic.

The president said a bill is taking shape, but offered no comment on its contents. He reported he was undecided whether to send congress a special message on the subject.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, said after a luncheon with Mr. Roosevelt that "probably by the end of the week" a new farm bill "will be completed and ready for submission."

As the problem of an AAA substitute continued to hold major capital attention, with both senate and house committees giving it careful consideration, there were these other developments:

1. A suggestion by Senator Norris that administration leaders should press for legislation to remove farm-aid measures from jurisdiction of lower courts.

2. Radio address by Secretary Wallace who said "I am not sure that I am in complete accord with all of the recommendations" of the farm leaders' conference on a successor to AAA.

3. Appearance of several farm organization leaders before the senate agriculture committee, with open indications of a split with the administration over several issues.

4. Approval by the house agricultural committee of a bill to provide $40,000,000 in seed and feed loans for 1936 crops.

5. Statement by Chairman Jones (D., Tex.), of the house agriculture committee stressing linking of the domestic allotment plan with soil conservation in a new farm program.

6. Launching of a move on capitol hill to retain or collect all of the $1-200,000,000 levied in processing taxes through retroactive legislation.

7. A ruling by Comptroller General J. R. McCarry that funds could be used to carry on only those AAA functions not invalidated by the court—which left the question of how many of the AAA employees will set pay checks tomorrow still in doubt.

Eight suspects were arrested and the army thus bagged all but one of its quarry. One man fled during the shooting and was sought tonight in cane fields.

Less than a month ago army agents shot and killed four men in a search for the snatchers of Nicolas Castano, elderly millionaire, who was rescued from a farm after being held a week. Several others have been slain in abduction cases of the recent few months.

Authorities blame the growth of the racket upon radicals seeking money to finance revolts.

The gang which kidnaped Gorostiza was hemmed in or a farm by a force of 700 soldiers, sailors and police. The men abandoned Gorostiza in the foothills and he was taken by authorities to Havana.

He said he had received a telegram from Carrington Gill, assistant federal relief administrator, advising him that the total WPA funds made available to Illinois had been increased from $62,000,000 to $72,000,000.

A Good Suggestion

The plan proposed by H. J. Rodgers, which would call for the payment of the special assessment against the public schools from the city's public benefit tax, is worthy of careful consideration. It would relieve the schools of an outstanding debt of $20,000 and raise the bonding limit to a point where added funds could be secured to build the two new school structures so much needed here.

The plan is simple enough and can be put in operation without an increase in taxes. The city already levies a public benefit tax, which brings a revenue of some $27,000 annually. The debt which would require several years to liquidate if paid in the usual annual installments, could thus be wiped out in a single year. The schools would be relieved of future interest charges, which would otherwise be a charge on the taxpayer.

The raising of the bonding limit would enable the Board of Education to provide the additional funds to meet the increased building costs and erect both the remaining units in the school modernization program. Both the Board of Education and the city council should give this plan further thought and work together to make it a reality.

Cheap Flying

Howard Hughes, a daring young aviator, has broken into the limelight with a record transcontinental hop. He spanned the continent in 94 hours, flying at an altitude of 18,000 feet and averaging 260 miles per hour. This is what Wiley Post attempted to do, for Hughes flew thru the lower stratosphere and thus raised his speed average.

It is another triumph for aviation, which is yet in the early practical stages of its development. If Henry Ford goes forward with present plans, there will soon be a triumph in the air that will be even greater, for flying will become as popular as motoring. Mr. Ford is planning a plane that will fly 500 miles on thirty gallons of gasoline, carrying two passengers. That will mean $6 for a 500-mile cruise, cheap enough to permit anyone who can afford to operate a car to put on wings.

If Mr. Ford pushes his market, the rise of aviation will create new problems and bring on a new era. With flying made as cheap as motoring, it would be hard to predict the future. The element of safety enters into the computation, but the American people have a habit of disregarding safety where speed is concerned. Motoring today is fraught with plenty of danger, as accident statistics prove; but it continues to grow in popularity. It is hoped that if flying is put within reach of the average pocketbook, the toll of life and property will not be too heavy.

Making an Inland Sea

Engineers working at the dictation of Mussolini, are studying the problem of flooding the Danakil desert in Ethiopia by letting in water from the Indian Ocean. Portions of this desert are 500 feet below sea level, and if ocean water can be let into the area, flooding will be easy.

With a vast inland sea created at the foot of the Ethiopian mountains, Italian ships could proceed 100 miles inland and load the valuable oil of the region and carry it to Italy. Just how the work is to be accomplished is not known, but it is estimated to cost only $75,000,000, which means that it must be rather simple.

The Mediterranean Sea is said to have been formed when the Atlantic Ocean broke thru the land barrier at Gibraltar and poured over a vast valley. It is believed some rather advanced civilizations were wiped out in that catastrophe, which may have been part of the biblical flood.

Filling the Danakil desert with sea water would hardly be a disaster, but it might have some effect on the climatic conditions and surface contour of the entire region. Once turned loose in the vast desert, the ocean might go places where it would not be wanted.

Russia's Gory Era Recalled

After 18 years, Russian authorities have managed to catch and imprison six men who tortured and then buried alive a Soviet official in the city of Izhevsk during the civil war which swept the fringes of Russia after 1918. By the time you read this, the six may already have been executed, for Soviet courts do not lag in cases like this.

Announcement of the arrests is a reminder that the things that happened in Russia during the two or three years following the end of the World War must make about as bloody and terrible a record as any comparable period in the whole story of mankind.

Control of cities and provinces swept back and forth, from Red to White to Red to White and back again, in dizzying succession. Torture, murder and general cruelty were the order of the day, applied impartially by both sides.

This Soviet official who was buried alive was only one among many. The thing that makes his case an exception is that his torturers are finally being brought to book.

Living to 100

John D. Rockefeller, whose one ambition now is to live to the age of 100 years, has found that he must give up most of the physical exercise he has enjoyed. No more golf for him, and few auto rides. If the weather is warm he goes for a short walk in the morning, but his life consists largely of complete rest and relaxation.

Yet this man whose physical frame has to be so carefully guarded, if kept mentally. When his son visits him, there are long conversations relative to important affairs. He reads his mail and the daily papers. He chats with his family for a time each afternoon. His mental life appears as vigorous as ever, and his interest in the world of affairs is just as keen.

All of which points to something religionists might hail as a proof of immortality. Physical life fails, but as long as the organs thru which mentality functions remain intact, the mind is keen and alert. There is something about the thought life of man which does not age. Even tho the physical structures change once every seven years of life, which means that Mr. Rockefeller has had thirteen complete changes of the materials composing his body, memory, thought, knowledge and personality persist thru life, not only unchanged, but showing continuous development.

It is safe to say that, if Mr. Rockefeller's physical life can be preserved, he will reach the century mark and pass it, and his mind will continue to function in its present alert manner; his interest in the modern world will still be keen and penetrating.

Hughes' Fears for Prestige of Supreme Court Is Seen Behind New 6-3 Decisions . . . Said to Believe 5-4 Lineup Opens Tribunal to Criticism . . . His Book Gives Good Line on His Views.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington—Weeks before the U.S. Supreme Court came crashing down on AAA, the small circle of secretaries and ex-secretaries to justices—a group far closer to the court than any other and practically the only pipeline through which its secrets conceivably might leak—was whispering with conviction that Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes was seriously worried about the court's prestige and future power.

Hughes, the story went, was afraid of the effect of further 5-to-4 decisions in vitally important cases and was willing to do almost anything in his power to avert them.

He felt that it might be difficult to preserve any belief in the court's infallibility if its critics were able to point out that the judgment of one man was determining the economic and political future of the nation; that plausibility would be lent to charges of one-man judicial dictatorship; and that aid and comfort would be given to would-be curbers of the court.

Point to Vermont Case

Consequently, the boys were whispering, when Hughes found himself about to be on the short end of a 5-to-4 decision he would be willing to move over to the majority, realizing that he couldn't change the result by dissenting, but that in concurring he might do much to preserve the court and its power.

When the Vermont income tax case came up for ruling—an astonishing curb on state legislative power—the word quickly went around that such reasoning had led Hughes to desert the "liberal minority"—of which he, along with Brandeis, Stone, and Cardozo, had been considered a member, since Roberts delivered the slashing majority opinion against the railroad pensions act—and thus effect 6-to-3 decision.

And of course now the story in the same quarters is that the 6-to-3 decision against the government on AAA probably would have stood 5-to-4 if Hughes hadn't felt it would be ruinous to the court and therefore sought to save the court's face.

But the secret of just how Hughes felt about AAA will repose in his own bosom and the "inside dope" passed along herewith is presented only as a subject for interesting speculation.

Hughes' Book Quoted

It is considered significant by some lawyers that Hughes did not read the majority opinion in this case, which many consider the most important supreme court ruling since the Civil war. Previously he had read the opinions in all important New Deal cases.

If his heart had been in the AAA opinion as much as in preservation of the court's position, it is argued, he would have insisted on expounding the majority view instead of leaving it to Roberts.

In the past Hughes has written that the court had inflicted at least three grievous wounds upon itself, including the Dred Scott decision.

And in his book, "The Supreme Court of the United States"—written between his terms on the bench—he also said:

"There are some who think it desirable that dissents should not be disclosed, as they detract from the force of the judgment. Undoubtedly they do. When unanimity can be obtained without sacrifice of conviction. It strongly commends the decision to public confidence."

ON AGAIN—OFF AGAIN

Upholds Dissent Custom

Hughes went on, however, to uphold the custom of public dissent and to say that such right preserved the individuality of justices and that "a dissent in a court of last resort is an appeal . . . to the intelligence of a future day . . . observing that many dissents had become eventual law."

Every supreme court justice becomes impressed tremendously with the importance of the court and with his responsibility for preserving its majesty and popular prestige.

That's why so many justices—the late Justice Taft, as well as Hughes—have labored so hard in secret conferences for unanimous opinions.

Perhaps in the chief justice's private papers, long after he is dead, it will be learned how he really felt about AAA. Meanwhile, the only fellows who pretend to know anything about the matter insist that there will be very few 5-to-4 decisions while Hughes is on the bench.

Editor People's Forum:

Practically seeking a new agricultural program for the now defunct AAA, President Roosevelt in conference at Washington January 10, with a select group of so-called "agricultural leaders," is quoted as saying: "We must avoid any national agricultural policy which will result in shipping our soil fertility to foreign nations." If there be an atom of sincerity in that expression commanding of respect among his counselors they will do well to give first consideration to our all time national land policy for sanctioning foreign private little-holdings to American soil.

But the monstrous social and industrial evils which arise from absentee-ownership of land, and off pointed out, is a matter to which our agricultural experts, economists and political leaders have steadfastly turned the deaf ear. Volumes of the most convincing character can and have been cited for indictment the practice of individuals holding title to land and dwelling apart therefrom; but, in the economic struggle for truth and justice no amount of logic has, as yet, been able to cope successfully with existing prejudice favorable to absentee-ownership.

It is chiefly three payments of rents to absentee owners of land that our national soil fertility is being sown to the four winds of the world. Within an hour's drive from the public square at Jacksonville one man may step foot on an estate embracing 36,000 acres of Illinois land from which European owners draw annual rent, and, as numerous Jacksonville citizens can testify, shift responsibility to tenants for farm improvements. In the north central part of this state there is practically one whole county so thoroughly drained of its soil-fertility by Chicago landlordism that the late Hon. H. T. Rainey once referred to it as "the most desolate spot in Illinois." Due to absentee ownership of land we find school districts, counties and states forfeiting soil fertility to other communities as paid in rents—a vast wealth much of which escapes taxation. If a new agricultural policy be now required America might do well by taking stock of this matter.

GIGANTIC SPECTACLE

A SCENE FROM THE LAST DAYS OF POMPEII

MIGHTY AND TERRIBLE EVENTS from a pagan world centuries ago, are brought to the screen in RKO Radio's spectacle, "THE LAST DAYS OF POMPEII," which plays at the FOX ILLINOIS Thursday and Friday. As the picture unfolds, a stark drama rolls in majestic splendor through vivid pageantry, searing conflict, and barbaric cruelties. In an epic march of death and destruction with earthquakes and a belching volcano.

"The Last Days of Pompeii" is a story of a world gone mad with revelry and debauchery. It is told in the life of one man who, placing gold and might above all else, rises to heights of power and riches by wholesale trafficking in human life. It is a story of splendor and misery, lavishness and savagery, greed and despair, yet of all the warring emotions, it is love that triumphs in this powerful drama.

Everything that Marcus, head of the great Pompeian arena, does is for the love of his adopted son. His cruelties, butcheries and greed are motivated by the desire that this boy may have a place among the great and aristocratic of the Roman Empire. It is, furthermore, the love of this son for humanity that robs Marcus of the realization of his cherished ambitions, but it is a similar compassion, reborn in his own heart, that finally leads to the service of his fellow man and regain his immortal soul.

There is also a tragedy of love in the beginning of the story that starts the great engine of events rolling. As a young blacksmith living happily with his wife and child, Marcus loses them because of his poverty. Believing riches to be the only insurance for happiness, he starts out ruthlessly to acquire them.

THE PERFECT GENTLEMAN

Sally Rand did it with a fan and after with a bubble, but it was for Dance Director Dave Gould's 36 girls to do it with balloons—thousands of them.

Meaning, of course, dance. Rehearsed for many weeks, the spectacular number was filmed on the stage of the Biltmore Theatre in Los Angeles as a scene in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "THE PERFECT GENTLEMAN," opening today at the FOX MAJESTIC.

Six hundred extras comprise the audience, along with Frank Morgan, Ciolek Courtneidge, Heather Angel, Richard Waring, Herbert Mundin, Una O'Connor and others in the cast.

Gould, famous for the dances he has put on the screen at M-G-M, said his balloon dance is the first in which the entire ensemble participates.

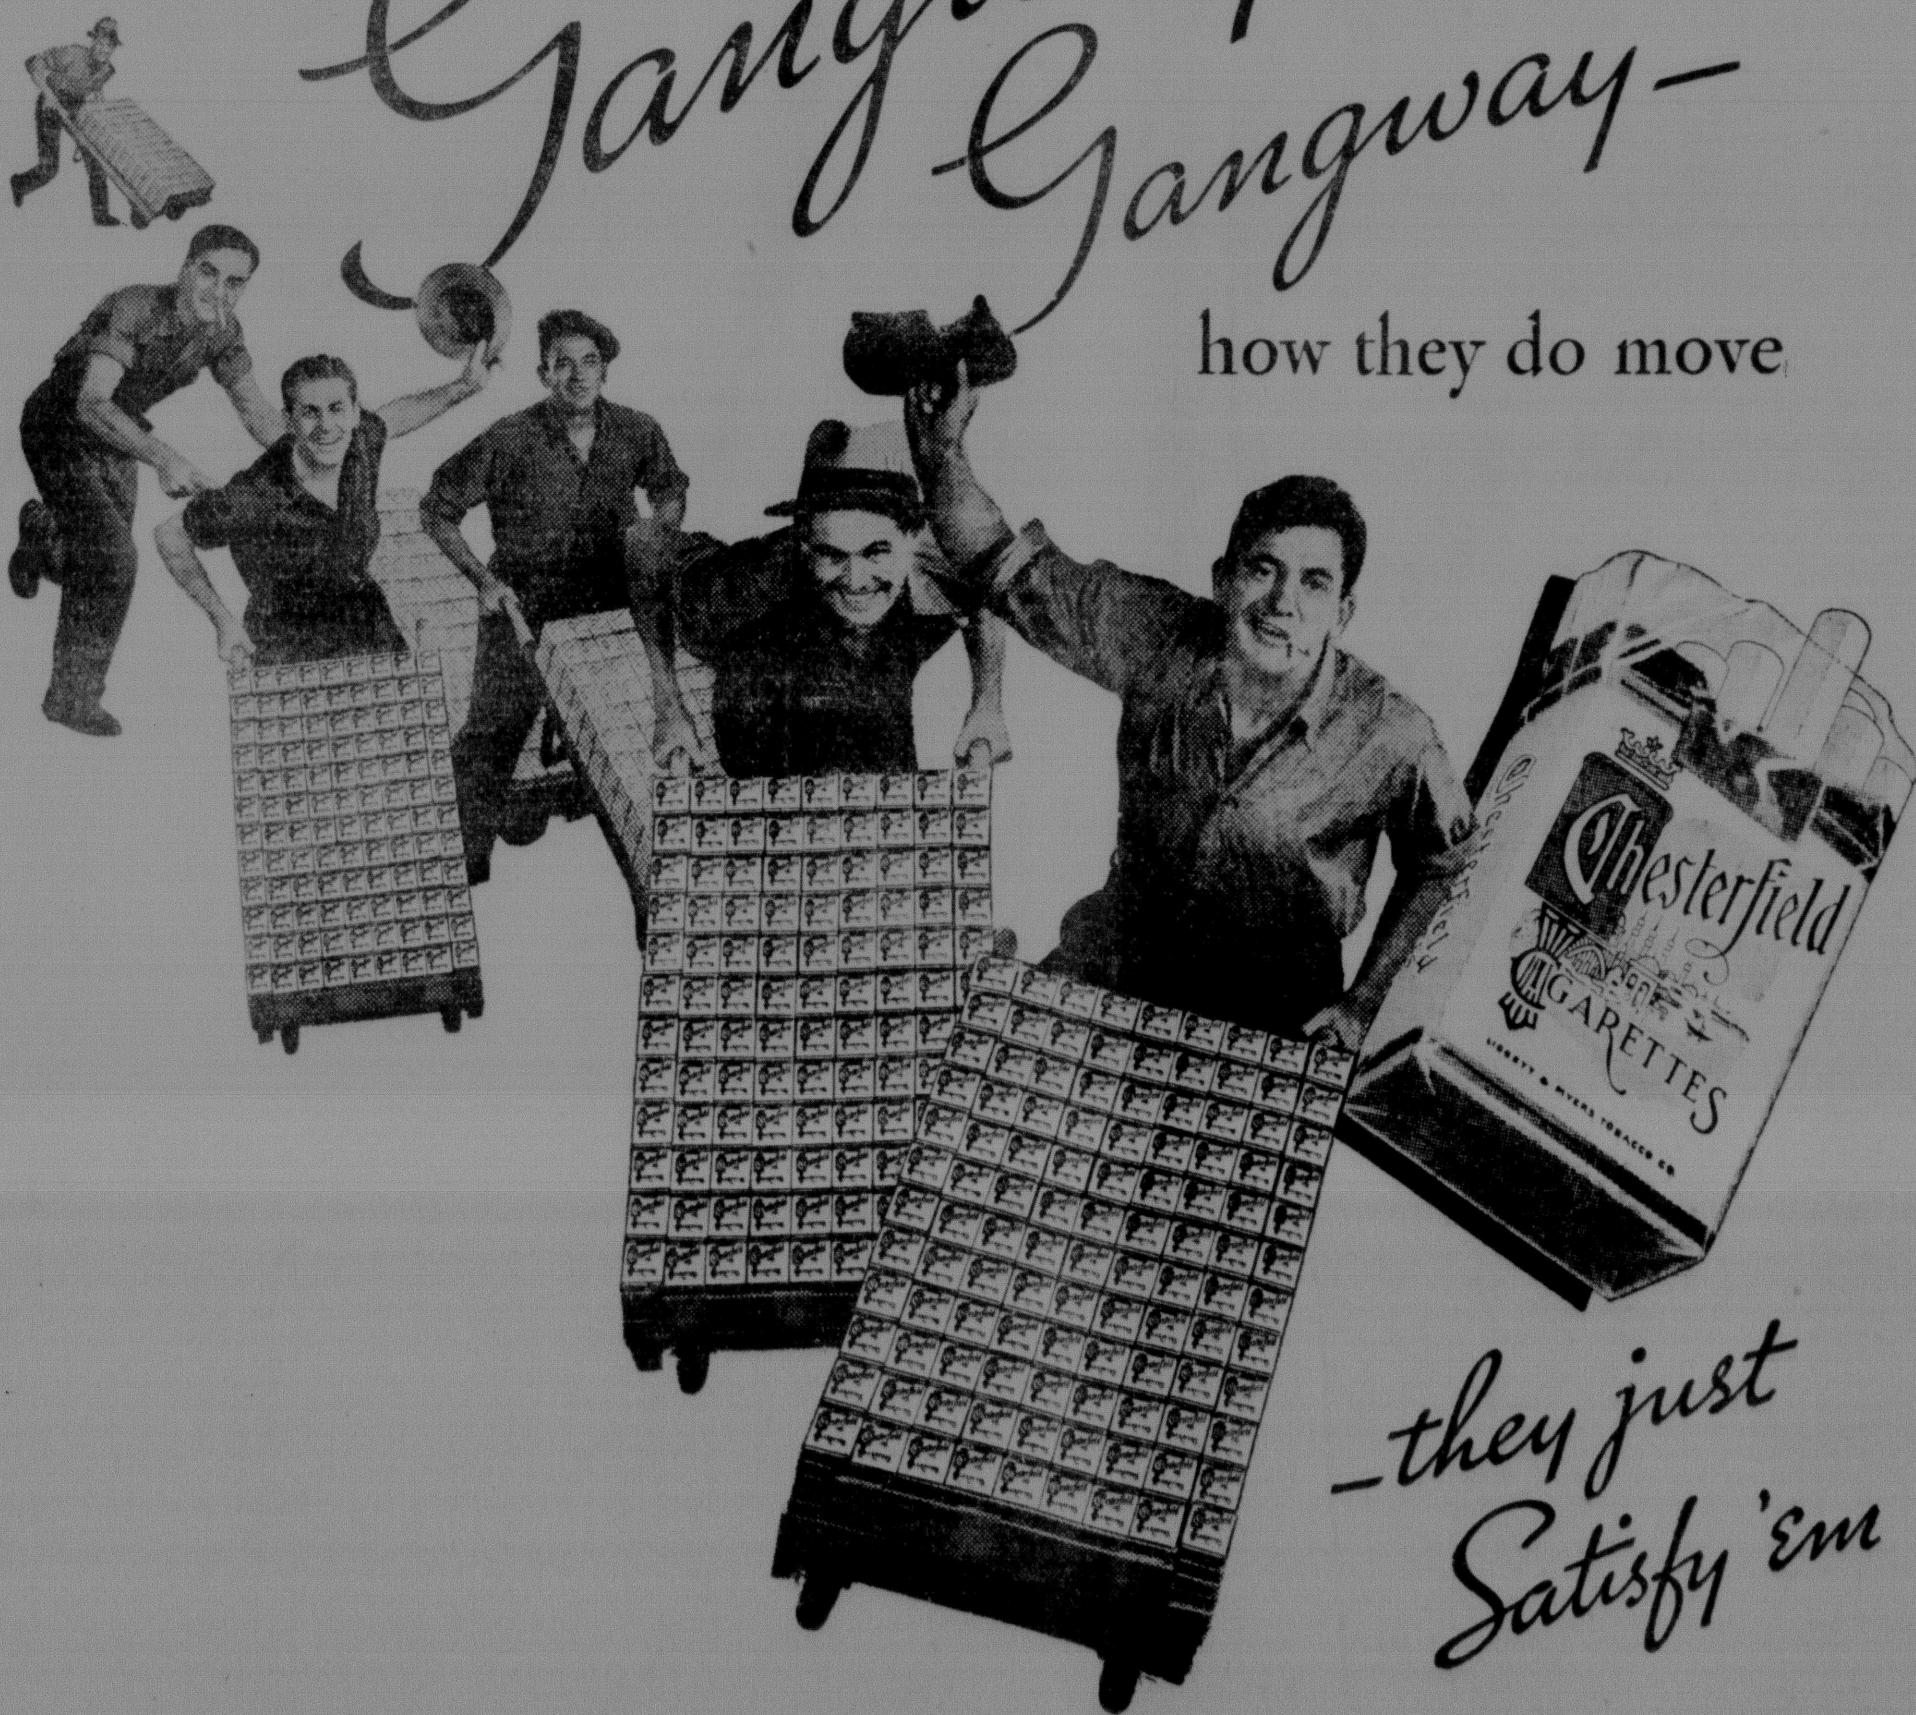

He reckoned that ten thousand balloons were broken in rehearsals. During filming there were more than a thousand on the stage at one time, ranging in size from marbles to basketballs.

The dancers' fingernails were especially manicured for the number. Sharp nails puncture the balloons. Gould found that out when he began rehearsals. Balloons were bursting right and left and he couldn't understand why. The girls' costumes—what there was of them—were inspected for pins. A bright young assistant discovered the pointed nails.

Here's Swift and Direct Action to Relieve That Cold

Modern External Treatment Helps End Colds Without Constant "Dosing" to Upset Digestion.

JUST RUB ON AT BEDTIME

Two generations of mothers have proved Vicks VapoRub the most effective treatment for children's colds. VapoRub is external—and safe. Its use avoids the risks of constant internal "dosing" which so often upset digestion and appetite, thus lowering body resistance when most needed.

Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub starts to work immediately—two ways at once:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this powerful poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

A Practical Guide for Mothers
Each year, more and more families are being helped to fever colds and shorter colds by Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.

Sees Italian Women Give Wedding Rings for War

Dr. Julian Wadsworth Tells of Scenes Unique in History

A vivid description of the sacrifice made by Italian women in giving up their wedding rings to provide gold for the war with Ethiopia is given in a letter from Dr. Julian M. Wadsworth, written to Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Applebee in this city. Dr. Wadsworth was in Florence, Italy on the day the rings were turned over to the government and was an eye-witness to the stirring scenes.

He writes in part:
"But this I am coming to see—that Italy is much more nearly and completely united than I had before realized, and never has the whole population been so completely and blindly devoted to their leader. They now seem to be hypnotized and believe he cannot make a mistake. They have no other thought than that they are going into Abyssinia to carry the culture and civilization of their own enlightened life to those backward people."

Gold for War Chest
Thursday the 18th was a day unique in the history, I suppose, of the whole world. Never had such a request been made of a whole nation and for such a cause of patriotism, and I believe that never was such a request responded to as this one was. I refer to Mussolini's demand that people in all Italy give for the sake of their besieged country (Sanctions having gone into effect on the 18th of November, they now consider that in the face of these sanctions, all the world must see Italy as in a state of siege. He asked that the people give for gold in the state treasury their wedding rings. You can't know what this means to a people who place such regard upon this sacred ring. Millions of peasant people have kept this one single gold band as the priceless treasure of their lives. Now think of a man making such a request and think of the degree of loyalty which made the response so universal.

Sees Rings Given
I went out early Thursday to get close-up impressions of this response. Scattered in several parts of the city were prescribed places for the receiving of the rings. I followed a long line of school children all in uniform, carrying either real or model rifles, gleeful with the thought of their loyalty, singing through the streets songs of their country. They brought me to the Loggia di Signoria which place had witnessed all the historic scenes of Florentine life since the expulsion of Dante, including the execution of Savonarola and the banishment of the Medici. I found this particular place for the receiving of the wedding rings directly under the statues, or between them, of Donatello and Leonardo di Vinci. I wonder what they would have thought had they a vision of this one today.

The crowd was simply dense, thousands upon thousands were crowding there and I pressed in the midst of the throng. I secured a place near the line of soldiers who were guarding the steel helmet into which the gold rings were deposited. The first one who caught my attention was a woman, peasant evidently, with grey hair, and uncovered head. I should say her ring had been hers for fifty years. As she took it off her finger her expression was that of one who would gladly give her life for him who had made this tremendous request. Another not so old caught my eye as I saw the struggle of soul that was hers. With difficulty, she managed to get her ring over her swollen knuckle. She held it in her hand while for almost a minute she looked intently into the helmet I saw her struggle as all oblivious to her surroundings, she took of all that it meant to give it; then suddenly, quickly turning away, she left, still keeping hold of her ring. In other parts of the city I followed equally great crowds and watched this glad and yet tragic gift of their most precious possession for their loved Italy.

Rings Are Melted
I talked with many who proudly showed me the little paper receipt, which will later be exchanged for a plain steel ring which will always commemorate the sacrificial gift of the wedding ring. Then at five o'clock before the mass of people assembled in the afternoon, these rings were taken and melted into gold ingots, which were publicly displayed so that everybody might see his or her ring thus united in one great accord for the country's need.

I am told that in Milan, a large city, 250,000 rings were offered. Here in Tuscany Province, 164,000 were received, in Florence, about 65,000. I do not know how much gold in ingots is realized, but I do know that it was a wonderful stroke of strategy on the part of Mussolini to make this supreme test of the people's loyalty, and that today vastly more valuable is this demonstration on the part of all Italy than the mere worth of the gold.

Precious Sacrifices
For instance, Signora Altavite, a cultured woman, told me of her own feeling. Her ring was precious but finally she reasoned that while she herself might have many rings and could afford to give more in value in gold than her ring, yet how would she feel in the future when meeting any of the poor peasant women who in all probability would never have another gold ring and had given the only one they had ever possessed, and she had her one locked away in the vault.

Because of this, and the steady journal account of the necessity of pressing the campaign, and the awful facing of the sanctions, I am sure there is a constant strengthening of the resisting force in Italy. I do not see the least wavering toward a revolution on the part of the people in general. They say that they will gladly give up all they have if Mussolini thinks it needful for his campaign. Of course I cannot know what is underneath the politics which are hidden in their deep currents, as some must see the possible ruin of the country in its economic. After all, how long will a great war be able to continue in Abyssinia on the gold given by wedding rings?

Even now, they are reporting what sums are being sent back by the soldiers in Abyssinia to their families, as saved from their wages. But the people must know that these wages are being paid by the government from the very taxes given by these same families.

Carleton College Band Will Play in H. S. Auditorium Here on February 12th

The Carleton Symphony Band of Northfield, Minnesota, one of the foremost college bands in the country and ranking with professional organizations, will appear in a concert Feb. 12, at 8:15 o'clock in the high school auditorium under auspices of the Jacksonville High School Band and Illinois College Band.

An outstanding pioneer in the field of symphony band music in the United States, the Carleton Symphony Band is playing in its thirteenth season with an international reputation for the high quality of its accomplishments. The band was founded at Carleton College in November, 1923, by James Robert Gillette, its present conductor, and during the past twelve years has traveled in many sections of the United States and in Canada, winning universally the acclamation of music critics as an organization of outstanding calibre and merit.

Using an instrumentation in which woodwinds predominate over the brass instruments, and in which a string section is included, the Carleton Symphony Band has achieved a tonal variety and color range in its music which rivals that of a full symphony orchestra. Its instrumentation has been made standard for symphony bands by the National Music Bureau. The success of the band has brought it several invitations to play before international music festivals in Europe. It has played over the network of the National Broadcasting Company and over numerous local radio stations.

Mr. Gillette, conductor of the band, was ranked as one of the greatest organists in the country when he came as a professor of organ to Carleton College, and began to pioneer in the field of the symphony band. In addition to his prominence as a band director, he is well known also as a composer and arranger of band music. He has recruited the fifty-seven members of the 1936 organization of the Carleton Symphony Band from thirteen states.

Hog Prices Ten To 25 Cents Off

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(P)—The heaviest run of hogs for the second day of the week in more than a year burdened the livestock market today. Hog prices were mostly 10 to 25 cents lower.

The supply totaled 30,000, a third billed direct. The top was $9.95, which was 40 cents above the best price paid eight days ago just before the Supreme Court's AAA ruling was announced.

A small supply of choice and prime steers ruled steady, selling at $13 upward to $14.35, but this was no criterion as to the general cattle market. The bulk of inbetween grade steers were weak to 25 cents lower.

Fat lambs were 10 to 15 cents lower, the bulk selling at $10.60 to $10.75.

LIVESTOCK ESTIMATES

Morgan County Vets in Line to Get $634,809
if Bonus Is Approved

Payment of the war veterans' bonus as proposed in the bill passed by the U. S. House of Representatives would bring an estimated total of $634,809.60 to Morgan county veterans. These figures are based on a statement by Representative Wright Patman, (D., Texas), co-author of the bill, who said Illinois has 253,343 holders of adjusted compensation certificates valued at $141,589.16.

His estimates, obtained from the internal revenue bureau and other governmental agencies, indicate that payment of the bonus would mean well over a half million dollars for Morgan county veterans in bonds or cash.

The estimate for nearby counties includes: Calhoun $148,950.36; Cass,
$206,559.98; Greene, $378,531.18; Pike,
$451,578.78; Scott, $158,313.05.
Jacksonville Post of the American Legion is now conducting a registration of all veterans in the county in view of a probable payment of the bonus. Veterans may secure blanks and information at the Legion Home.

Morgan county veterans are watching with deep interest the proceedings in Washington and may result in an early payment of the bonus. More than a half million dollars would be a welcome addition to the pocketbooks, bank accounts and trade channels of Morgan county.

Four Speakers Debate Municipal Light Plant Issue Here Last Night

Jacksonville's proposed municipal power plant was operated hypothetically last night in two ways—at a profit and at a loss—by two shifts of able debaters. The affirmative speakers before a large audience of citizens threw the wheels of the plant into forward motion and obtained lower electric rates for the city; the negative debaters pulled the reverse lever, contending that was the only way things would run.

Hold Final Rites For Donald Pearce, Accident Victim

Services For Former Local Youth Are Conducted Tuesday

Using as his text one of the expressions that has grown up with the younger generation, the Rev. T. B. Lugg lauded the life led by Donald Pearce, who was accidentally killed in New York Friday in an elevator accident at funeral services held here yesterday.

"So What," queried the pastor as he offered consolation to the parents and multitude of friends who gathered in the Grace Methodist church, and then answered the question himself with praises for the fine character and sterling qualities that made the deceased one of the leaders while in high school, college and business. His influence will be felt for many years, the pastor said.

Reading from statements given him by persons with whom the victim of the accident was associated, the pastor related the high regard in which Mr. Pearce was held in the office of Swift and Company in New York, where he was last employed, from the Jacksonville Journal and Courier, and from his Sunday school teacher.

A short prayer opened the services at the residence at 145 Pine street, followed by funeral services at the church. The Rev. Mr. Lugg was assisted by the Rev. F. A. Havighurst at the church services.

A quartette, composed of some of Pearce's friends while in college, sang "Rock of Ages" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The quartette consisted of Ernest Bone, Devere Brockhouse, Willard Cody and Cordell Moore.

Brief services were held at the grave in White Hall, where the body was interred. Rev. Mr. Lugg was in charge of the rites at the grave.

The honorary pall bearers were Prof. H. J. Stratton, Prof. LaRue Van Meter, Prof. H. C. Brachner, Prof. F. B. Oxtoby, Dean R. H. Lacey, Prof. J. G. Ames, Ray Nussipick, Clarence Ingram, Kenneth Chenoweth, Sam Pinson, Robert Frisch, Carl Kaiser, Alden Rexroat, all of Jacksonville; Donald Neutzman, William Dawdy, White Hall, and James Orr, Roodhouse.

The active pall bearers were Ernest Savage, Erlend Ericson, John Strain, John Russell, John Martin, Harold Davis, Clarence Smith and Richard Shirley.

In charge of the many beautiful floral tributes were the Misses Margaret Bailey, Clara White, Eleanor Chapin, Barbara Dunlap and Louise Boring, of Jacksonville; Mildred Carlyle, of White Hall; Gladys Stragg and Virginia Merrill, of Roodhouse.

School Board Moves To Obtain Funds For Buildings Here

To Interview C. H. Bauer Concerning Status Of Project

Preparing for another effort to secure additional funds for the purpose of constructing two new grade school units in this city, the board of education last night at its regular meeting approved a trip to Chicago for three of its members, who will seek an interview with C. H. Bauer, director of PWA activities in the state. There was no decision upon when the board members would make the trip, but it is planned for this week, in order to determine definitely where the board stands with the PWA.

Henry Rodgers, who last night presented a plan to the city council which would increase the bonding power of the board to a point where it would be possible to construct the buildings under the present bids, explained his plan to the board of education. The plan was received gratefully, but no action was taken in view of the pending conference with the PWA officials.

President George B. Kendall, S. N. Poley and C. N. Wright, members of the board, were authorized to accompany the architect, Hubert Smith, of Champaign, to Chicago to interview the PWA in an effort to obtain a larger grant from them to aid in the project. The board is attempting to obtain a grant from PWA equal to its proportion of the difference between the estimated cost and the actual cost, as revealed in the bids submitted by contractors seeking work on one of the buildings.

In the meantime, the architect has been engaged in revising the plans in an effort to reduce the cost of the buildings. By leaving out one or two of the rooms in the completed structure, it was believed that the cost would be reduced sufficiently to make it possible to go ahead with construction.

Dr. R. O. Stoops, superintendent, in reporting on the condition of the schools at present, called the attention of the board to the fact that the first semester will end Jan. 24, and the second semester of the year will begin Jan. 27. A total of 77 pupils will pass from the junior to the senior high school, and 46 pupils will be brought up from the various sixth grades to enter the junior high school.

Health Conditions.
Better health conditions are prevailing in the schools now than was the case last month, he reported, lauding the work of the health nurse, Miss Buchanan, in preventing scarlet fever from becoming epidemic.

New cases have been appearing on the average of one a day, but the situation apparently is well in hand, he said.

One new class room is being added to the high school building, through the removal of girl's lockers on the first floor. The lockers have been re-located in the run-way between the David Prince and senior high school, and the space they formerly occupied has been closed in, and turned over to the mechanical drawing department. Dr. Stoops reported that conditions were ideal for the room, in that it had an overhead day light arrangement.

Commenting on the budget for the coming year, Dr. Stoops reported that this community paid 94 per cent of its taxes levied in 1933 and collected in 1934, and that the school district collected 95.6 per cent of its taxes in 1935, levied in 1934. In both instances, he said, the income was slightly higher than the total budget appropriations.

Completion of the school census, underway since the beginning of the school year, is anticipated this week, he reported. R. C. Simonson and Harry Alwine, two Illinois College students, have been working on the project. Through the census, it will be possible to locate each child eligible to enter school at the time set by the board.

RECIPROCAL TRADE ASSOCIATION OPPOSES MUNICIPAL PLAN

Belleville, Jan. 14.—Contending coal miners and railroad workers would suffer if the proposed municipal electric plant equipped with oil burning engines is built at Jacksonville, the Southern Illinois Reciprocal Trade Association at Belleville yesterday called on Public Works Administrator Ickes to rescind the allotment of $420,000 in PWA funds to the City of Jacksonville to finance construction of the plant.

James W. Bristow, executive vice-president of the association in forwarding the protest of the allocation, said the project is "economically unsound and not in the public interest."

"It does not provide employment contemplated by the PWA program, it proposes to duplicate existing satisfactorily operated facilities and would in fact result in a waste of Federal Funds," Bristow said.

The association declared coal miners and railroad workers of Illinois would be deprived of 46,000 man hours of labor and $35,600 a year in wages by the annual market loss of 15,000 tons of coal if the proposed plant is built.

"The mining and railroad industries," the protest stated, "under normal conditions pay more than $26,000,000 a year in taxes in Illinois and contribute to the livelihood of more than 10 per cent of its population."

Arenzville-Concord Residents Petition Horner For Highway

More than one hundred persons assembled in a meeting at Arenzville last night signed a petition to Governor Horner asking that an 18-foot slab be laid on the Arenzville-Concord route and that the nine-foot slab between Concord and Route 104 be widened to 18 feet. A large delegation of Jacksonville business men attended the gathering, which was a complimentary dinner given for the donors of the right-of-way for the new road. The excellent meal was served in McCarty hall by ladies of the Presbyterian church.

During the dinner a musical program was presented. Willard Tyler led the group in community singing. Mrs. A. C. Bolle rendered several violin selections, with Mrs. Maudie Cowan as accompanist. Mrs. Hattie Johnson sang, "The Music Goes Round," with Mrs. Norman Schnitker as accompanist. A whistling solo was given by Mrs. H. C. Johnson, accompanied by Mrs. Schnitker. The entire program brought hearty applause from the assembled guests.

Dr. A. C. Bolle officiated as chairman of the meeting. He stated that it was strictly a hard road meeting, and remarked in the course of the program, "We don't talk around here."

He presented T. M. Coyle who told of the work of securing right-of-way. He announced that every foot of the route had been donated by land owners, that the donation was 100 per cent and willingly given. He praised those who made a real sacrifice in giving land for the new road. Dr. Bolle called upon the donors to stand, and read the list of the following citizens of the Concord and Arenzville communities who gave land for the right-of-way.

The Donors
Mr. and Mrs. H. Engelbach, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Nickel, Mr. and Mrs. Ball and Hackney, Amanda Pfeil, Leah Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bente, Oscar and Ollie Laumer, Mr. and Mrs. John Nickel, James and John Pfeil, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lippert, Herman Lippert, Flossie Lippert, Clarence Lippert, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lippert, Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl Abernathy, Mrs. May Brown, Waldon and Mount Brown, Mrs. Charles Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Duffelmeier, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Musch, Elza Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Nickel, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nickel, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dietrick, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dietrick, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Bayless, Mr. and Mrs. John Kershaw and Mrs. Thomas Coyle.

Mr. Coyle stated that the work of securing the road had reached the half-way point, and that the same operation would be necessary in pushing the petition for a concrete slab. He read the petition to the governor, and it was passed through the crowd for signatures.

Dr. Bolle next presented Representative Warren Brockhouse, who pledged that he would do all he could to secure a hard-surfaced road on the new route. He pointed out that federal funds were once available in Morgan county, but had been spent elsewhere. Feeling that the highway house got the promise of the highway department that it would be spent on the Concord-Arenzville route, he explained that Morgan county commissioners are doing all they can to get the road built, and congratulated the people of the community on the generous donation of right-of-way.

Representative Glenn Petefish of Virginia was the next speaker. He said that the appropriation of more money from the general fund for right-of-way left the state budget somewhat unbalanced, so that the highway department might not have as much to spend on roads. He promised to help get the best type of road that could be obtained for the community.

Judge Teale of Rushville also a legislative representative, also spoke and said he was for the best roads that could be had.

Mr. Brockhouse said he could assure the people that some type of hard-surfaced road would be constructed. Dr. Bolle called on Charles M. Slaymaker, assistant chief engineer in the highway department, who discussed various types of surfacing. He pointed out that the department is following a policy of building a type of road adapted to the traffic using it. Without the help of bond issues, which built the main concrete trunk lines in the state, such a policy is necessary. Money is not as plentiful as it used to be, he said. However, he declared, that the people who have given so generously as those at Concord and Arenzville, "deserve the best."

Dr. Bolle called on members of the Jacksonville delegation. T. M. Tomlinson was the speaker. He expressed hope that slab would be the type of surface built and that it would extend full width all the way from Arenzville to Route 104. Others in the party from Jacksonville included Carl Hamilton, R. E. Welch, William Casler, who spoke for the county commissioners, bringing greetings and congratulations on the success in securing the right-of-way. Carl Gebhardt, Charles Aitor, George Lukeman, J. A. Long, Clarence Lukeman, Cass Hannum and Otis Smith, Carl Hamilton, president of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly, expressing the friendship of Jacksonville for the people of the Arenzville-Concord community, and the willingness of local citizens to help boost the new road in any way possible.

The petition sent Governor Horner from the meeting last night follows:

The Petition.
We the undersigned petitioners, residing in the vicinity of the road now being built by the Illinois State Highway Dept. between the Villages of Concord and Arenzville, in the Counties of Morgan and Cass, DO HEREBY PETITION YOU, to build an eighteen foot concrete slab on this road when the present job of grading and Bridges is completed.

The Right of Way Committee has worked long and faithfully, assembling data to submit with this Petition. We have obtained technical advice (Continued on page six)
